Add Photos, Files, GIFs and Links to Your Emails with One Click

By Devin Abbott, Associate Product Manager

At Yahoo, we believe that email is personal and the messages you create should be compelling, creative and beautiful, and of course, easy to compose. In the past, it's been hard to find and add photos, files or other content when sending emails, but today that's about to change.

We're excited to share a new feature when you're composing a message that's quick and fun to use. Now, you can easily find and add photos, files, GIFs or links to your messages.

Try it out when you compose your next email by clicking on the new + icon in the bottom right corner of the compose window. A panel will open on the right side that shows you four different types of content that you can select: photos, files, GIFs and web links (icons from left to right). Here is what each category contains:

- Photos: View photos that you've sent or received in Yahoo Mail sorted by date, with the most recent photos up top. You can also search for photos from the Web or Flickr using the search box.
- Files: See files including documents, presentations, PDFs, etc. that you've sent or received sorted by date. If you're looking for a specific file, you can search by person or keyword in the search box.
- GIFs: Have some fun by sending a GIF (animated image). We include search suggestions, but you can also search from GIFs across the Web and Tumblr. We've also added a handy preview for photos and GIFs when you hover over the image to make sure you pick the perfect expression.
- Web Links: Reference a website without having to leave Yahoo Mail by searching for the restaurant, hotel, movie, etc. right within the panel. The link will appear in your email with an informative link preview.

Once you find what you'd like to add, just click or drag-and-drop to add it to your email and you're done!

This new compose feature is rolling out to Yahoo Mail users in the U.S. over the next few days. We've also made improvements to the overall compose experience that make it faster and smoother. Enjoy, and don't forget to share your feedback.
